Extraordinary Lives

“Our company has never changed our philosophy from Day 1. We always must think of others first as part of a compassionate mentality. Don’t do anything just for yourself. Consider your community and the world and put yourself in a position to do things for others. This business is all about giving.”

Message from Mr. Ohshiro

Get Outside Your Comfort Zone and Grow

It was invigorating to see so much positive energy from Independent Distributors and Enagic employees at last month's Enagic Global Convention. For distributors who weren't able to join us in San Diego, hopefully you're connecting with team members who were there and can share valuable lessons that refine your approach and propel your teams forward.

We're now in the second half of 2025, which is a whole new business cycle. If we recognized your achievements on stage in San Diego or you recently ranked up, don't rest on your laurels. Team success isn't just based on individual accolades. What more can you do to help your downline thrive? Who else can you reach? Time to plant the seeds for 2026 and beyond.

As a company, Enagic never just holds steady. We launch new products and initiatives, expand into more markets, and invest in our communities to make sure we continue to grow for decades to come. We recently introduced a Kangen Water® ionizer, the Leveluk SD501DX, along with emGuarde and Kangen Air. Kangen Wagyu Beef is now available in the United States. We're developing the Enagic Condo Resort in Sedake and increasing investment in the Chiba Institute of Science. We've found many new ways to reach more people and will not stop innovating.

In the same way, Independent Distributors must expand their network and grow their knowledge to stimulate new activity, avoid complacency, and create a blueprint for future success. Opportunities to share Kangen Water®, Ukon and other products with prospective users and distributors is endless. Nearly 8 billion people live on this planet, but don't expect them to find you. Develop ways to get in touch with prospects either online, by phone, or if possible, in person.

As always, outreach must be rooted in compassion. After all, we designed Enagic's patented 8-point compensation plan to be mutually beneficial. When we have the compassion to share this powerful opportunity with others, to mentor, and help people to succeed, everyone wins.

Don't forget to drink Kangen Water® and stay hydrated this summer. Let's go grab a glass.

6A2-4 Rawan Radwan

Change Your Life Story

6A2-4 Rawan Radwan grew up in Lebanon before moving to Canada, only to face new challenges. “As a mother of two and an immigrant in Canada with no family support, I was determined to create a life where I could be present for my children while also providing for them,” Rawan says.

Rawan credits two “incredible coaches” from the Dream Team. 6A2-6 Mike Dreher & Darren Ewert, and her “inspiring mentors,” 6A2-5 Garrett and Jill Jensen, with guiding her on this exceptional Enagic journey. Rawan says, “For the first time, I saw a path that aligned with both my personal values and my professional ambitions. “

Rawan identified three Dream Team factors that may help her to feel “supported and capable.”

- “An empowering community”
- “A proven system”
- “World-class mentorship”

More concrete considerations also swayed her commitment to Independent Distribution. “Enagic’s innovative products and generous compensation plan gave me the confidence that I may build a thriving business from home,” she says.

Before having kids, Rawan worked in a restaurant, which was fine, but unfulfilling. “While I was grateful for the work, I always knew I wanted something more for myself and my family,” she says. While scrolling online, an Enagic ad caught her attention. “The idea of creating a business that could fit around my lifestyle, while being supported by such experienced and passionate leaders, immediately resonated with me.” she says. “The supportive community they fostered gave me the confidence to take the leap, and I’ve been grateful ever since.”

“My goal is to create a ripple effect of empowerment, support, and success,” Rawan says. “If I can do it—starting from scratch as a single mom and an immigrant—so can you.”

Rawan completed an initial sale to Angelito & Glenda Lucanas, who are now ranked 6A2. Since then, she has continued to thrive and rank up. “As the first Arabic woman to reach this rank, I am incredibly humbled and grateful for the opportunity to help as many immigrants as possible realize that there is another way to earn an income and become fearless leaders,” she says. “As a single mom of two, the Enagic business has been truly life-changing for me.”

“I invested in myself, became a certified life coach, and embraced the powerful system and mentorship that the Dream Team and Enagic provide,” Rawan says. “Success is not about where you start, but about your willingness to grow, persevere, and believe in yourself.”

“Today, I am proud not only of the business I’ve built, but of the leader I’ve become,” she says.” I am passionate about paying it forward—empowering other immigrants, especially women, to step into their own power, to find their voice, and to create a life of abundance and purpose.”

To support her community, Rawan has hosted three major in-person events so far in Montreal, Dubai, and Michigan. She also mentors team members with regular online interactions:

- Hosts weekly Zoom calls
- Shares daily content in mentorship groups
- Coaches her coaches
- Mentors downline in a “big collaborative effort”

“My goal is to create a ripple effect of empowerment, support, and success,” Rawan says. “If I can do it—starting from scratch as a single mom and an immigrant—so can you.”

With hard work, some of the most dedicated independent distributors may be able to earn supplemental income (see the earnings disclosure statement on www.enagic.com for details).*

Curcuminoid Content Varies by Ukon Variety, Growing Conditions, and Extraction Method!

Curcuminoids and essential oils, the main components in Ukon, have oxidative properties and offer numerous benefits. However, these compounds are not as stable as we might think. The curcuminoid content in Ukon rhizomes varies depending on a wide range of factors such as the variety, species, location, source, cultivation conditions, type of soil, nutrient availability, climate conditions, processing methods, and extraction techniques.

According to research, in India, the curcumin content in 120 accessions of autumn Ukon (Curcuma longa) varies between 2.8% and 10.9%, while in 64 accessions of various Ukon species, the curcumin content ranges from 0.02% to 8.0%. In Thailand, the total curcuminoid content from Ukon collected at 66 locations varies between 0.46% and 10.23%.

The color of Ukon is also unstable, especially under alkaline conditions, varying pH levels, light exposure, and high temperatures. Similarly, curcuminoids and essential oils become unstable due to differences in extraction and storage conditions. The extraction rate and composition also varies by the extraction techniques used, such as steam distillation, low-pressure solvent extraction, Soxhlet extraction, and supercritical fluid extraction using carbon dioxide.

Among these techniques, Soxhlet extraction using ethanol as the solvent yielded the highest extraction rate (27%), while steam distillation resulted in the lowest yield (2.1%). Among the solvents tested, 70% ethanol extraction provided the highest curcuminoid yield.

This information demonstrates that in order to secure high-quality Ukon raw materials and develop stable and effective turmeric products, it is essential to consider a wide range of factors.

Ukon Factory News

Employees of the Kangen Foods farm division learn from Dr. Hosain Mohamed Amzad monthly about high-yield methods and high-quality cultivation techniques for Ukon in Okinawa.

Given that Okinawa is prone to typhoons, employees are also learning about typhoon countermeasures. They are gaining in-depth knowledge to help increase Ukon yields.

High-quality Ukon can be produced by addressing a variety of factors such as planting season, soil type, seed quality, planting depth, spacing between plants, planting method, ridge width, additional fertilization, soil preparation, compost use, and crop rotation issues.

In this way, we do our utmost every day so that all our retailers can confidently provide high-quality Ukon from Okinawa.

This year's harvest has finished, and a large quantity of high-quality Ukon has been delivered from our contracted farmers (270 households).

From now on, we will watch over the growth to ensure that good-quality Ukon grows well until the next harvest season.

E8PA'S VERY FIRST EXECUTIVE DINNER

E8PA hosted its very first executive dinner on June 19th at Eastlake Golf Club in Chula Vista, San Diego. This exclusive event was held for E8PA Gold, Platinum, and Black members. The evening began with a warm welcome from E8PA President Hiroto Matsumoto. During the event, several outstanding distributors were recognized for their achievements. Jilly Torrez received an award for being the top E-Points donor, while Cynthia Briganti and Amos Sia were honored for earning the most E-Points. In addition, Cora Loh, along with Glenda and Dante Calinisan, were celebrated as the longest loyal members of E8PA, having been with the organization since 2016. Romi Verdera gave a toast, and dinner was served. For the first time, guests were treated to Kangen beef steak raised in the USA and introduced by Mika Miner representing Kangen Farm. Kangen beef sausage and Ukon bread rolls were also served at the dinner. Mr. Ohshiro then took the stage to introduce his family, followed by a heartfelt speech from Mrs. Ohshiro that deeply moved everyone in the room.

Thank you for visiting our booth!
We handed out exclusive E8PA pins for members at the 51st Anniversary Event.

If you're a member and did not receive your E8PA pin, please contact your nearest office to inquire.

Special seats were reserved for E8PA members during the main event.

We will continue to offer exclusive areas for members at future major events!

We have a special offer right now!
Each membership is currently available at half price until further notice.
